

Classical Association of New South Wales Inc.

Ian McLeod Award for promotion of classical studies

The Classical Association of New South Wales will make an annual Ian McLeod Award to support a project which will promote in New South Wales the study of the culture of the ancient Mediterranean (before AD 700). The amount awarded will be between $500 and $5,000.

1. Time when applications are due

Applications should be sent to the President of the Association by 31 March 2011, then by 30 November 2011 for the 2012 award, and thereafter by 30 November each year for the year following.

2. Method of application

Applicants should apply using the application form and budget sheet herewith.

3. Decision on applications

i. Funds will be awarded on a competitive basis, and the right to make no award on any occasion is reserved.

ii. The decision on which application or applications to approve will be made by a subcommittee of the Council of CANSW, consisting of the President or nominee, the Secretary, the Treasurer and one other Council member.

4. Projects suitable for funding

i. The essential principle is that applications should be for funds to support a project directed towards promoting the objects of the Classical Association of New South Wales Inc., to wit:

‘... to promote the development and maintain the well-being of classical studies, and, in particular

- (a) to impress upon public opinion the claims of such studies;
- (b) to discuss the scope and methods of classical teaching;
- (c) to encourage investigation and call attention to new discoveries;
- (d) to create opportunities for friendly intercourse among all lovers of classical learning in this country;
- (e) to undertake any other activity consistent with the above objects.’

ii. Within the overall context of promoting these objects, the Ian McLeod Award will be given to a project which in the judgement (and the absolute discretion) of the subcommittee either promotes classical studies via the press or electronic media, or promotes and advances classical studies in schools (at any level or all levels from Kindergarten to Year 12), or promotes and advances classical studies in adult and community education.

Examples of projects which may be suitable as recipients of Ian McLeod Awards would include:

- development of educational resources (any or all school levels, Kindergarten to Year 12)

 - development of educational resources (adult and community education)

 - development of pedagogy in classical studies

- activities directed to raising the profile of classical studies in schools (any or all levels, Kindergarten to year 12)

- activities directed to raising the profile of classical studies in adult and community education

 - museum activities for school-age children

 - museum activities connected with adult and community education

 - school holiday educational activities

iii. Ian McLeod Awards will not normally be made to promote classical studies in universities.

iv. Applications for donations on a recurrent basis from year to year will not normally be approved.

5. Grant funds

The grant funds once awarded will be paid against receipts or invoices presented to the Treasurer of CANSW, within twelve months of the date of the award.
